A PERSONAL NOTE

Hi [redacted]
It's hot, hot, hot in the desert! The pool feels like a bathtub and the dogs are eating ice cubes, lol! Here's a picture of my friend Karen and I after having our hair blow dried one evening. Instead of happy hour at a bar we're in a beauty salon having our hair styled while they have "theme" drinks, food, and music. Kind of refreshing to have a new activity to do!

I'm excited to show you the new design for my ezine! Brilliant designer Jill Anderson outdid herself again making it look like a magazine and featuring all my favorite quotes.

The idea is to have it look so beautiful you will want to look at it every month and you'll be excited to say your wealth building affirmations! I think the internet is sorely lacking good design and I'm so grateful to have someone like Jill to take my ideas and make them reality. Hit "reply" and let me know what you think!

To Your Prosperity!

FEATURE ARTICLE

[redacted], Millionaires Think Like This, Do You?

Are you thinking like a millionaire or is your mindset trapped in "lack" thinking?

Millionaires are always preparing to have more wealth. They keep an open mindset and believe everything is possible and available to them. For example, when you're in a store do you avoid certain departments because you think they're too expensive?

It costs nothing to look after all.

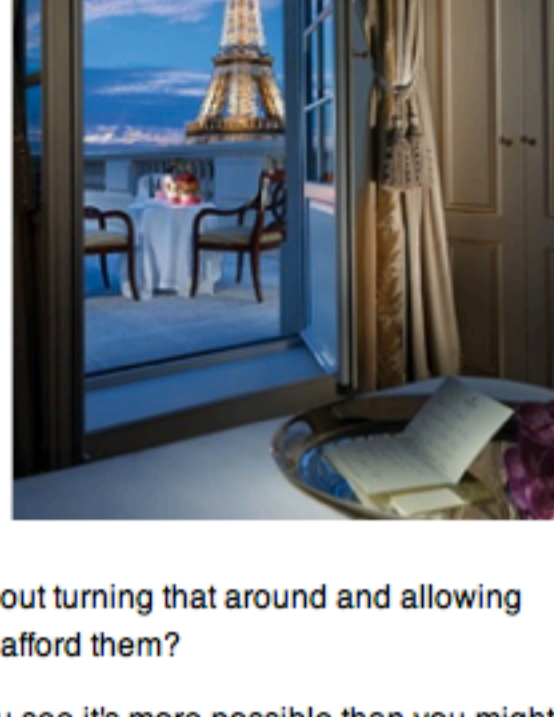

When you plan a vacation, are you automatically eliminating certain kinds of trips, certain cruise lines, certain cities because they are too expensive?

If so, when are you going to allow yourself to dream? Having dreams is important BEFORE you create wealth.

People often say "I'll do this or that after I win the lottery." How about turning that around and allowing yourself to look at nice cruises, cars, and clothes before you can afford them?

Did you ever think it might actually inspire you? It might make you see it's more possible than you might have otherwise believed?
